MESSAGE FROM THE MENAHEL

Dear Parents,

It is so refreshing to be back in the rhythm and routine of a flourishing, vibrant school year. As we leave the lofty period of the ירח האיתנים-the powerful spiritual injection of Elul, Rosh Hashana, Yom Kippur and Sukkot, we enter these winter months with full suitcases packed with inspiration. And, what better tool is there to cultivate these lessons than our very precious Sefer Bereshit, packed with life lessons and meaning in every פסוק!

In this week's פרשה, the תורה describes what happened when the Egyptians discovered שרי who was hidden from them. פרעה-and they praised her to ויהללו אתה. They didn't just tell פרעה. They praised her to פרעה. As שלמה המלך writes in ספר משלי-ואיש לפי מהללו. Just as a furnace removes the impurities from gold and silver and presents you with these metals in their purest form, so too man can be measured by what he praises.

If you want to get to know the true essence of a person, listen carefully to what they get excited about. Imagine that three people go to a wedding, one goes home talking about how delicious the food was, one describes how beautifully the chuppah, flower arrangements, and decor were set up, and the third talks about the deep aura of Kedusha which was felt throughout the ceremony. Each of these people are telling us a tremendous amount about themselves and what they value most.

While this tool from שלמה המלך is a great barometer to get a better understanding of the people around us, it's also a painfully accurate tool to measure our own spiritual status. Pay attention to what gets you excited and what you praise, and you'll get to know yourself a whole lot better in the process! And, as parents, we have an extra great responsibility to pay attention to our words because, even more than we realize, our kids are paying very, very close attention to what makes us tick...and they are framing their own world around our words-truly humbling and scary to think about!

Maybe this is a good time to apply the old slogan "fake it till you make it!" Let's talk openly in our homes and get EXCITED about Torah, Mitzvot, Shiurim, Tefilah and everything else that we want our children to live their lives based on. You never know, it might just cause us to live our lives on a much higher plane, in the process!

Wishing you all much נחת!

Shabbat Shalom!
Rabbi Moshe, Abady

MESSAGE FROM OUR GENERAL STUDIES DIRECTOR

Our 7th and 8th graders visited the Ronald Reagan Presidential Library this week and took a deeper look into American history. They gained insight into the life of the president and the numerous duties and skills needed to be a part of a governing body. Amongst other things, the students learned about the Cold War and the fall of the Berlin Wall. (Today is the 30th anniversary of its fall).

The Situation Room activity was fantastic! This is a technically integrated role-playing activity where students work together to solve a simulated crisis based on real historical events. Our students took part in the “Oval Office” simulation and were asked to make decisions concerning the Invasion of Granada, which took place during the Reagan administration. Students were chosen to play the parts of President Reagan and his chief advisors.

For many students, the highlight was going aboard Air Force One, the airplane that was actually used by President Reagan.

A special thanks to our drivers and chaperones: Mr. Flactman, Mr. Saeedian, Mrs. Y. Vahedy, Mr. Shans, Mrs. R. Mahgerefteh and Mr. Maman.

MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESCHOOL DIRECTOR

This week we welcomed our music teacher, Morah Chaya Shapiro, back! We were super excited to sing and dance and act out scenes from the parasha through music and movement. Our Music class is a comprehensive program, complete with skill building in following directions, auditory cues, rhythm and beat, coordination, throwing and catching, singing and memorization, and so much more! Plus it's loads of fun!

This Shabbat, יא' השון, will be Rachel Imenu's Yahrzeit. We learned about Rachel and what a Mitzvah girl she was. May all of our Mitzvah boys and girls continue to emulate her beautiful Middot!

Our Kindergarten classes have been focusing on a beautiful unit all about ברוך השם. We have so much to thank Hashem for every day! How beautiful that the kindergarten children get to recognize the many things Hashem does for them by bringing in special ברוך השם notes that go on the ברוך השם bulletin board. ברוך השם, the board is filling up!!

Shabbat Shalom!

Morah Chaya Motamedi

4th GRADE NEWS-KODESH

We had an amazing week in ד' כחה! In חומש, we learnt the difference between יעקב, who said "יש לי כל" and עשו, who said, "יש לי רב", and discussed the importance of being שמה בחלקו. The girls are excellent at deciphering the פסוקים and are doing fantastic חזרה with their שרשים flipbooks each night. In נביא, the girls were fascinated as we learned about רחב, who saved כלב ופנחס. We had our first ביאורי תפילה quiz on the meaning of שאמר, ברוך שאמר, and all the girls did beautifully ב"ה. In עברית, we learnt a unit on school related words and spent time on the concept of התאמה. The girls found examples of התאמה in חומש and נביא, showing that they truly mastered the concept! We learned all about פטירת רחל אמנו and the value of being mevater. We had a wonderful week of learning and are looking forward to more!

Shabbat shalom!

4th GRADE NEWS-GENERAL STUDIES

The amazing girls of Mrs. Palatt's 4th grade have been busy exploring and learning about many topics! They have read interesting mini biographies about Mae Jemison, the first African American female astronaut and space scientist, and about Henry Wells and William G. Fargo, the founders of Wells Fargo Bank. We've even discussed how today's system of banking works and how it was established, (before ATMs!) with questions arising including how banks actually earn money!

A favorite part of 4th grade is the Bonus Point system of rewarding students for their exemplary behavior and outstanding work. Points are given for quietly getting ready for a lesson, listening, working with focus without socializing, and for completing extra credit work. The majority of the extra credit assignments are challenging, thought provoking, and focus on critical thinking skills. In addition, the girls like working on the word searches, word puzzles, and complex coloring pages. "How many points do I have?" is a question taken care of with small charts that each student is given to keep track of their points. I am the only one allowed to write on the master chart!

Math is a popular subject with the 4th grade girls! The lessons have focused on working with large numbers, from the hundred thousands to the millions. The girls love being challenged and enjoy using their individual dry erase boards to solve problems. It is so refreshing to teach girls that embrace math and take pride in their mastery of skills! The girls are enjoying the multiplication "Ice Cream Challenge", a fun way to encourage them to learn their basic facts by heart. One set of facts is tested at a time, for example, we just did the 6s. There is a quick timed drill (45 seconds!) with only 12 problems. The goal is of course to get 100%. In the case of missed problems, there is a make-up test until 100% is achieved. When all the times tables have been mastered by the whole class, a special surprise awaits the girls!
